

HOW TO CONNECT WITH PHYSICIANS IN THE AGE OF COVID

In the age of Covid, Physicians and other health care providers are confronting unprecedented demands on their time and attention. Face to face meetings have been put on hold for the foreseeable future. Routine detailing sessions won't cut it. Pharmaceutical representatives need to learn how to communicate virtually while they deliver the added value that their customers need.

Dr Marla Shapiro, an award winning KOL, media personality and authority on Covid-19, and Mike Lipkin, a leading communication coach, have partnered to bring you key insights on how to connect with physicians in the age of Covid.

As a practising physician, Dr Shapiro knows firsthand the challenges confronting her peers across Canada and the specific impact of Covid on their everyday existence. Mike Lipkin is a recognised expert on creating virtual presence and charisma. Together, they will help your representatives master how to:

1. Motivate physicians to take the call
2. Bring insights that are relevant and meaningful to physicians
3. Deliver added value information that enhances the physicians' effectiveness
4. Create rapport and collegiality through special touches
5. Help physicians communicate with their patients
6. Share community best practices
7. Put everything into the "Age of Covid" perspective

Dr Shapiro and Mike customize every program to the specific realities facing clients. They engage in a detailed briefing session and adapt their material accordingly. Call Mike Lipkin on 416 917 6007 or email him at mike.lipkin@environics.ca to explore the possibilities.
